The following is given in brief as the theory most generally entertained by scientists, with a few exceptions, con eerning tides: It is assumed that the meon, acting nione, would not only raise a wave on the side of the earth water would then be raised relatively to would act similarly, although its ride right angles to the line of the moon's from the moon, virtually the same ef sun would again be superimposed on that of the moon and give tides on op posite sides as high as those a fortnight

Keep still. When trouble is brewing. keep still. Even when slander is getting on his legs, keep still. When your feelings are hurt, keep still-till you recover from your excitement at any rate. Things look differently through an unagitated eye.

Dr. Burton relates how once in commotion he wrote a letter and sent it and wished he had not. "In my later years," he said, "I had another comlife had rubbed a little sense into me and I kept that letter in my pocket over without agitation and without tears. I was glad I did. Less and less it seemed necessary to send it. I was not sure it would do any hurt, but in doubtfulness I leaned to reticence, and eventually it was destroyed." Time works wonders. Wait till you can speak calmly, and then you will not need to speak, maybe,

A poet has said that "as for Brown-ing's love for his wife nothing more tender and chivalrous has ever been told of ideal lovers in an ideal romance It is so beautiful a story that one often perfers it to the sweetest or loftlest ocem that came from the lips of elther." True, yet the lives of the two as poets make the story what it is Their lives, indeed, were poems, as Milton said poets' lives should be, and their poetry was their life, as Mrs. Brown ing said should also be true of poets. The world could spare neither the lives nor the poems, and especially would it he poor without those poems in which each sang of the other. Take these together, was there ever, in all the treasmry of the world's literature, so angelical an antiphony of love anthemed by the two radiant and immortal lovers themselves?-Richard Watson Gilder

In English statutes of the sixteenth century the punishment set down for the crime of murdering by poison was bolling alive, and a girl was actually executed in that ghastly fashlon. In 1538 Father Stone of Canterbury suffered the same death. A curious ac count is in existence which gives the amount paid "for two men who set the kettle and parboiled him" and "to the women that scoured the kettle." sentence was not always carried out with so much ferocity, for culprit; were sometimes hanged before being boiled In one case it is recorded that a man D. KAUBLE, Nevada, O. was first hanged, then boiled and then Digests What You Eat quartered.

Wordsworth considered "The Excursion" his best and next to it "The White Doe of Rylstone." Wordsworth said that when he first thought seriously of being a poet he looked into himself to see how he was fitted for the work and seemed to find there "that first great gift, the vital soul," a statement which shows that, whatever other people may think of him, he had a passably fair opinion of himself. He frequently expressed his opinion of his own poetry and once said that he had widened the domain of the poet over whole field deemed irreclaimable.

A Creeping Death.

Blood poison creeps up towards the heart, causing death J. E. Stearns, Belle Plaine, Minn., writes that a friend dreadfully injured his hand, which swelled up like blood poisoning. Bucklen's Arnica Salve drew out the poison, healed the wound, and save his life. Best in the world for burns and sores. 25c at E. S. Leadheater & Sons' drug store.

Herb W. rdwards Injured. Herb W. Edwards, of Des Moines, owa, got a fail on an icy wa'k last winter, spraining his wrist and bruising his knows. "The next day," he says, "they were so sore and still I was afraid I would have to stay in bed, but I rubbed hem well with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and after a few applications all soraness had disappeared. I feel that this bottle of Pain Balm saved me sev-J. & H. AITCHESON, eral days' time, to say no hing of the suffering "This liniment is for sale by Gibson & Timberman and W. F.
